ARMY OF POTOMAC

Our Losses Since Thursday Last.

DESTRUCTION OF THE WELDON ROAD.

Advance of Warren's Corps.

HEADQUARTERS ARKY OF THE POTOMAC August 25, 1864 .- No engagement has taken place since Sunday, as the enemy loss failen back to their lines two miles from Petersburg, where they are seen busily erecting strong works similar o those we first encountered on our arrival here.

They are laboring night and day, with a large umber of men, as though they were afraid of an attack before they get the works completed. Their main line runs near and west of the leadworks, to the South Side road, which is said to be strongly defended. Their picket line extends nearly a mile south of their works, with videttes thrown out near the Davis House. The Richmond papers a knowledge a heavy loss in officers and men on Sunday morning, but claim that they have taken three thousand prisoners. Our losses in the 5th Corps foots up as follows :

Killed.—Officers, 17; men, 132. Wounded.—Officers, 74; men, 784. Missing.—Officers, 20; men, 2803. In the 9th Corps, the casualties are about 300, which will make a total loss of 4255 in these commands since Thursday last. No doubt many reported missing will yet turn up, as some of our men have a bad habit after a little reverse of retreating to the rear. Of this loss General Crawford's Division tains the greatest proportion, he having los about two thousand, mostly prisoners. Colonel Tilden, who was missing after the fight of Friday, is safe. He was captured, and with others taken to Petersburg, but during the excitement of loading hem on the cars, he managed to clade the vigilance of the guard and ran into some on-he where he lay concealed till chance gave him an opportunity to get away. He came into our

The 1st Division of the 24 Corps were engaged yesterday all day in tearing up and burning the railroad as far as Reams' Station and beyond, for a distance of about three miles, while that portion over which the 5th advanced was also ompletely destroyed.

DEFEAT AND PURSUIT OF THE ENEMY.

Carno, August 24 .- The Memphis Bulletin says that the Robel force that entered Memphis on Sunday morning consisted of nine regiments of cavalry and four gons, under Forrest in person. Only half the command entered the city, the remainder stopping outside to prevent their retreat from being cut off. They captured 250 prisoners, mostly one hundred days' men, many of whom escaped, and the patients in the hospitals, and shot several sick soldiers, and captured others, who, being others were recaptured. The Rebels fired on unable to keep up with the cavalry were killed. But for the prompt action of the 8th Iowa, the prisoners in the Irving Prison might have been eleased and the Bulletin office sacked. The Rebels suddenly loft the city about 6 o'clock, followed by a considerable force of our troops and a fight occurred near Lane's landing, lasting two hours, in which the Rebels were severely unished and driven off. It was here that Colonels Star and Hendricks were wounded.

In coming through Lane's landing, the Rebeis captured two guns, a portion of the 7th Wisconin Battery, and a number of the one hundred days' men, but they were obliged to abandon the guns in their retreat. After the retreat, Forrest eent in a flag of truce, asking an exchange of prisoners, which was denied.

Lientenant Harrington, of the 3d United States Artillery, was killed in the Gayoso House. Major Lousing, of the 9th Colored Artiflery, and Lieutenant Kinsey, a member of General Wash burne's staff, were captured. When last heard from, at 7 o'clock on Monday sorning, the Rebels were eight miles beyond Nonneaugh Peak, in full retreat, Colonel Wins-ow's cavalry pursuing them. The 3d Illinois Cavalry passed through Cairo to-day, on route for Springfield, to be mustered out. Forty of its number were captured at Memphis on Sunday, among them Major O'Conner and Lieutenant-Colonel Duncau.

The Rebel Ram "Tenuessee." Private letters received in Washington from payal officers belonging to Farragut's fleet off Mobile, say that the captured Rebel ram Tennessee, in invulnerability and power, is vastly superior to any iron-clad vessel (excepting perhaps the New Ironsides) in our navy. She had but one defect in her construction, and that was the exposure of her rudder-chains, which were above deck instead of below, only partially protected by a thin coating of iron. Only two shot, out of more than two hundred which struck her, penetrated her sheeting, and only one (a 15-inch solid shot) went through her wood-work. The Tennessee is comparatively uninjured, and with a few slight repairs, which can be completed in a few days, will become a most valuable adjunct to our navy. She cost the Rebel Government over

This required legislative action. A bill was therefore framed, authorizing the vacation of the streets, and, as the concurrence of the State authorities has been received, there will be no further opposition to the extension of the grounds of the Naval dep 4. The streets to be vacated lie between Front street and the river Delaware, and were intended to be opened
